"Taiwan" is located in eastern Asia and on the northwest side of the Pacific Ocean. Although Taiwan is small, it is located in the hub of Air Asia. In order to cope with the increasing number of passengers year by year, the "Kaohsiung International Airport" in southern Taiwan is upgraded in advance for the future.

In addition to improving the quality of personnel services, Kaohsiung Airport took the lead in introducing advanced new energy-saving concepts. Do you want to learn more about how to transform and upgrade Kaohsiung Airport into a green airport? Please click on the picture below, and then you will find the answer.
